

Coleman Electronics – Response to query from the Challenge call.

As per query on the call and action for us – see response below from AFS.

Using APIs would be our preferred method of integration. As most of our clients' sites tend to be customised and different people want to integration different data, the system doesn't have an 'off the shelf' API. We'd need to have a meeting with you to agree which fields need to be passed to & from the other system. Once we've agreed that with you, we could produce a document for you to share with potential providers to explain the proposed integration. Alternatively, if there's a provider that you're particularly keen to use, we could have a joint meeting with them to agree the content and rules for the API.
